

Where termination is found to be without lawful cause, the Labour Court may direct reinstatement with back benefits as it deems just and proper.

No employer shall dismiss a worker without providing reasons in writing.